

DECIBEL unearths

50 forgotten late '60s/early '70s thud-rock masterpieces

21

The Damnation of Adam Blessing,
Second Damnation

One of the greatest US rock bands that hardly anyone has heard, TDOAB lay down a serious hurting on their second full-length. UNITED ARTISTS | 1970

THE STONER ROCK ISSUE : SEPTEMBER 07 : 49

41

Humble Pie,
Rock On

Steve Marriott is a legend, so let's take this time to give a shout-out to Suck, JPT Scare Band, Nitzinger, Budgie, the Frost and Pentagram!

A&M | 1971

42

Ursa Major,
Ursa Major

The mighty Dick Wagner of the Frost would make this amp-burning screamer before heading off with best bud Steve Hunter to add crucial fierceness to Alice Cooper and Lou Reed albums.

RCA | 1972

43

The Bob Seger System,
'Ramblin' Gamblin' Man

So fuckin' cool. Heavy, rockin', in your face and HUNGRY. Bob has long been considered a garage rock legend, but you gotta hear this shit to believe it.

CAPITOL | 1969

44

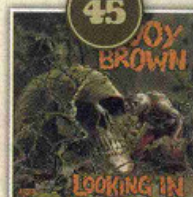

Ten Years After,
Stonedhenge

Again, legends, but not an album you hear every day. Stoner minimalism and an x-ray of the blues creates late-night lysergic bliss.

DERAM | 1968

45

Savoy Brown,
Looking In

This. Is. How. You. Do. It.

PARROT | 1970